LOCAL ITEMS.

Serenades.

We understand that on Monday night, owing to the gallantry of certain gentlemen, Helme-outter's Ocean House Band, went on a serenade excursion. Quite a number of the beautiful and lovely, were thus musically rizzled, and in their dreams were doubly blessed in consequence.

There was, however, an unfortunate termination to this "labor of love." One gentleman, who had taken the trouble to procure this sweet concert of sounds, by which to show his appreciation of virtue and loveliness, and who for the occasion had metamorphosed himself from a New York gentleman, into an impromptu sentinel, suddenly found his official duties unexpectedly onerous. The l'ho polli—the multitude attracted by the dulcet sounds, were eager to pass beyond what he decided to be proper limits, when he made a demonstration warlike, to check the crowd. As soon as this was perceived, the excited crowd raised the shout, "how are you old Heenan?" "Give us your shucks," pressing about the quack Heenan—which was another unexpected metamorphosis, they escorted him to his lodgings amidst the most earnest protestations, "that he was no Heenan," and on the part of the crowd, with a constant flow of "profession" exclamations. The music of love, and the music of war, being so very dissimilar, and the latter loudly predominating, the former was obliged to give up the contest and yield the field.

To keep moving when once within the Fort, and always to the right; and, not pass, or walk upon the grass.

Carriages will be admitted up to 7 o'clock, and no longer, and they will only be allowed to leave, after that hour.

A LAUREL.—We are authorized to state that the new and beautiful brig Redwood, on the stocks at the ship-yard of Messrs. Crandall will be launched to-morrow morning at high water, which will be at about half past 6 o'clock. The launch will be seen to the best advantage from sail-boats, though care should be taken not to be too near the track of the vessel as she comes off the stocks.

This Forenoon.

At 10 o'clock, in the Representatives' Chamber, the first session of the Scientific Association will be held. It will be public to as many as choose to be present. At this meeting a programme may be expected for Thursday's session, as well as the opening services.

Hops.

The first Hop of the season, took place at the Atlantic House Monday evening, and was every way satisfactory. To-night, the Ocean House has its first Hop.

The first Hop at the Ocean House will take place this Wednesday evening.

Concert in Providence.

Next Friday evening, the citizens of our neighboring city, Providence, are to have a public performance of Music, by such artists as Madame Stephani, Mrs. E. A. Payne, Signor Brignoli, and Carl Bergman, the whole to be under the direction of Mr. E. A. Payne, the talented organist of St. Mary's church, of this city.

The talents of these performers are too well known to require any further allusion to them. The programme will have upon it a part, the following: Cavatina, Quando "Duce by Facchini, and Gratias agimus tibi, to be sung by Stephani. Cavatina from Ernani, and Kathleen Marouneau, to be sung by Mrs. Payne. Bergman will play two Violoncello Soli, Fantasia by Offenbach, and Souvenir des Alpes, by Bergman, the pleasure of which we almost envy our Providence friends. Mr. Payne will play upon piano forte, a fantasia upon themes from Ernani. In addition to all these, Brignoli will exhibit his exquisite tenor voice in two soli.

We have no doubt Pratt's Hall will be crowded to its uttermost.

Pat was dry, and got out of the cars, for his refreshment; the cars very thoughtlessly went on without him. Pat's ire was up. "Ye spalpeen!" he cried, staring on a run, and shaking his fist at the fellow who had just stepped out of the train; "Stop there, ye old scoundrel! ye ye murderer's stain on me—ye've got a passenger on board that's left behind!"

Novel Mode of Smuggling Lace.

About a fortnight ago a French lady applied at the San Francisco Post Office for a number of newspapers which she expected from France. They had not arrived, nor was she successful in obtaining them after half a dozen applications in as many consecutive days. The delivery clerk, however, remembered her name, and not long afterwards a number of newspaper packages turned up directed to her. She did not appear again for several days, and the clerk placed them aside, ready to hand to her when she should come. Finally, as they were not called for, he took them one day, and in handling them carelessly observed something protruding from the envelope of one of them, which, on being examined more closely, proved to be the end of a piece of lace.

He pulled away at the end, and drew forth a long piece of rich French lace, and a further investigation showed that every envelope contained a similar description of goods. The clerk informed the Postmaster, who in turn told the Collector of it, as rather a funny way of evading the import duties, but as the affair was of too small a nature to call for a confiscation, or other customary proceeding, the Postmaster told the clerk to charge a certain sum as letter postage, and should the lady call again, to let her have the contraband articles on those conditions. A few days later Madame came and asked if her newspapers had yet made their appearance. The clerk told her yes—and on producing them, demanded the postage money that had been named. "Oh," replied Madame, "I shall pay up such sum as that. You may keep them for the benefit of your government."

The clerk explained to her the infraction of the law, and observed to her that she might get herself into serious difficulty if she conducted the smuggling business to any extent—but, he added, "Perhaps Madame was not aware of the contents." "Oh yes," she replied with charming naïveté, and cast such a killing glance at the poor clerk, through the latter-hole, that he nearly subsided into his boots. "Won't you please give me my newspapers?" she asked, and with such an appealing accent this time that Uncle Sam's monetary interests were like to be carried by storm. The scene was growing interesting—so interesting, in fact, that the observer deemed it prudent to "vanish the ranch."—Alta California.

Strangle and Fatal Accident.

The St. Johns (Mich.) Republican, of the 24th instant, says that a few days since a little daughter of Chester Dean, aged four years, was killed on the farm of Mr. J. C. Sewall, in the township of Essex, by the falling of a tree. Mrs. Dean, with three daughters, the youngest of whom was killed, were out picking berries, when the children sought refuge from the sun in the shade of a large bass-wood tree. At the time a dead calm prevailed—scarcely a breath of air was stirring—but the tree was suddenly uprooted and prostrated to the ground—a bough in the trunk striking the child, and another portion of it striking a stump at the same time, it was thrown some six feet from the child, leaving his mangled corpse imbedded in the earth, every inch in its body being apparently crushed. The frantic mother seized the corpse in her arms, and ran with it in the frenzy of her agony, the entrails dragging upon the ground as she ran, and it was with the greatest difficulty that she could be induced to have been at once buried and bright. There was something wonderful about the tree, which was apparently full of life and vigor, having started on its mission of death, without any visible impelling force.

Singular Freaks of Lightning and Miscellaneous Escapes.

On Saturday morning last, during a thunder storm, a stroke of lightning passed down the conductor attached to the residence of John B. Briggs, in Preble, N. Y., and through the ground into the cellar, where Miss Leis Hulbert, and Mr. Charles Fox were engaged in skimming and straining milk. The fluid struck Miss Hulbert on her side, tearing her apron into shreds, passed through her dress and under her clothes—melting one of her hoops—to her hip, thence down her leg, tearing her stocking on one side in places from one half to one inch apart until it reached the heel, when it entirely destroyed that portion of her hose, and ran her shoe into numberless pieces. Strange to say, the lady escaped with comparatively little injury. She was, of course, rendered senseless, but only for a short time. The only perceptible effect, she says, is a black line down the limb, and a slight lameness. Young Fox, standing about ten feet from Miss M., was, he thinks, hit by a ball of fire on the hip on the opposite side from where Miss Hulbert was standing; he was knocked down, but recovered in a very short time.

A house near Pleasant Home, Ky., was struck by lightning, last week, and a man and his daughter were struck, but not killed. Their escape was miraculous, for the lightning melted a knife in the pocket of the man, and burnt the hair from the head of the girl.

Distinguished Colored Runaways.

The Augusta (Ga.) Dispatch, of Monday last, says: A negro belonging to Senator Toombs, emigrated northwardly a short time since. Having been left in Washington City after the adjournment of Congress to bring on his master's horses, he very honestly shipped the other end of the road, and is now probably in a free State.

One of Hon. A. H. Stephens' servants was committed to jail last week in this city, having robbed his master of some $300. He "fell among thieves" of his own color down here, who robbed him of some $200, but the money has been all, or nearly all recovered. It is supposed from circumstances that he was making preparations to join Mr. Toombs' servant at the North, but the fascinations of Augusta interfered with his progress and led to his arrest.

These boys were part of the plunder stolen by the Abolitionist Chappell, in Washington City, some years since—an occurrence which caused some commotion at the time. Chappell was caught and put in jail, but we have forgotten what finally became of him—the negroes returned to their masters and were much trusted and kindly treated by them. We shall expect to hear of Mr. Toombs' boy on the stump for Abolition, as he is a smart fellow and blessed with the "gift of the gab."

Be a Mother to Your Children.

Be a mother to your children; be a companion of your boys and girls. The follies of the young are too often the manifestations of the sin of the mother—sins of omission, of neglect of the child's thought, which, instead of being trained, as the gardener inclines the twig, is allowed to be blown about by every passing breeze. Fill your child's thoughts full; stuff them to repletion with the good, and there will be no room for the bad to get in. You know how to satisfy the demands of his stomach, yet you do not attempt to cater for his nobler, mental and moral nature. Be a companion for your children. Teach them that if weaned from your breast, they are not put away from your heart; and from thence let them still draw their spirit, as they before found their life's blood. Be a mother!

"My ear is pained,
My soul is sick with every day's report
Of wrong and outrage with which earth is filled."

A mother! The fashionable woman whom we once met dancing wantonly at a city ball, when her only child lay at home sickening with the scarlet fever, is not the type we urge you to copy. She was but an ostrich who leaves his young on the desert sands. No, be a true mother, instinct with all the holy attributes of maternity. There are many of you who can, like us, point to the mansions of the blest for the type of a mother not dead, for she yet lives in our hearts, stirring us up with a sweet, soft voice, yet ringing louder than clarion blasts through our innermost souls, to duty.

Altho' if you will but accept the nobler office you are called upon to perform, if you will but occupy the heart of your husband, if you will but fold your children in to yourself, know their inmost thoughts, be their confidants, their life-springs, their guide, "runners husbands," as they are called, sons designated as "a little while," will be rare, and the world will be renovated. To these purer joys, does the true woman say dress and fashion are preferable?

Like all good actions, these will rebound with blessings. In the exercise of these duties, in the cultivation of home joys and affections, the exposures and consequent diseases will not be met with. Life will not be a constant state of invalidism. Will you think of these things?—[Knickerbocker Magazine.]

Leaving Home.

We can conceive of no picture more interesting than one which might be drawn from a young man leaving the home of his childhood, the scene of all his early associations, to try his fortune in a distant country, setting out alone for the "forest." A father on the decline, the dowdiness of life, gives his parting blessing, invoking the best gifts of Heaven to rest on his beloved offspring, and to crown all his efforts with complete success; tears gush from his eyes, and words are forth uttered. A kind, a most affectionate mother, calling after him, as he is departing from the paternal abode, and with all the dangers to which he is about to be exposed rushing into and pressing upon her mind, she says: "Go, my son—remember that there is a right and a wrong way." Her advice is brief. Language is inadequate to the expression of the feelings that then crowd on the mind of a virtuous child. Every word he hears of his mother, and may have been the last of his mother's voice, and may have been the last of his mother's life, and may have been the last of his mother's love.

Why Children go into Society.

A great many different motives actuate parents; the principal, I suppose, are such as these: The children, they reason, are young, and they must have enjoyment; and so they cram them with sweets till they have no relish for healthier food. Sorrow, they say, comes soon enough; let them be happy while they may; and so they fit them for bearing it by an utter waste of mind and body in a mad pursuit of pleasure. And then, they must be established in the world; their temporal interests must be attended to. And the myriads offered up on that altar, I would freeze your young blood to know of! And then, there is another very potent reason why they cannot be kept in the nest—for before they are well fledged, the willful little brood will try their wings, and neither law nor logic will suffice to keep them back. Now, even you, sensible and correctly-judging young lady as you be, would I fear, not bear the test of a trial; I am afraid your courage would droop before the self-denial of the first ball or two, and you would soon be drawn into the vortex without a struggle.

The Exaltible Child.

More watchful care, more prayerful earnestness, does such a child's rearing require, than if she had been laid upon her mother's love, a meowing cripple, or a blind and hapless sufferer. Just as soul is more precious than body, so is the responsibility heavier, the task more awful, of training and moulding such a sensitive nature, to whose morbid fancy a cruel repulse is a cruel blow, and an impatient word a rankling wound. The tenderest and most yearning love should surround and guard such a child's career, putting aside with careful hand the snares and trials that molest the way of life, till the maturing judgment shall have learned to control the exaggerated fancy. The winds of heaven should not be suffered to visit too roughly such a restles and unquiet heart, till the uncertain mists of dawn and early morning have melted before the clear and certain day. Between the rough and torturing world and the scared and shrinking soul, the mother's love should interpose, shielding, soothing, reassuring. God meant it to be so; may His pity be the guard of the little ones, whom death, the world, the flesh, or the devil, have defrauded of their right!

"The excavations of Eleusis," says a letter from Athens, "have just been for the present terminated. The temple of Ceres is completely disinterred, and a number of articles connected historically with it and with the fets of Eleusis have been brought to light. Among others are the propocea of which Cicero makes mention in his letters, and a magnificent marble statue, to which only a left arm is wanting, and which represents Antinous, the favorite of the Emperor Adrian. This statue is the size of life, and is considered a likeness from nature."

A countryman took his seat at a tavern table opposite to a gentleman who was indulging in a bottle of wine. Supposing the wine to be common property, our unsophisticated country friend helped himself to it with the gentleman's glass. "That's cool," exclaimed the owner of the wine, indignantly. "Yes," replied the other, "I should think there was ice in it."

According to the report of the Commissioner of Pensions, only 165 revolutionary patriots are yet living to receive this evidence of their country's gratitude. One after another these noble men pass away, until at last all are gone of that illustrious race of men. Altho' Charles's Invigorating Spirit cures Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Indigestion and Bad Spirits, thereby lengthening the lives of men, yet it cannot make persons last forever; if it could, these noble men of the revolution would be preserved for years to come.

Invigorating Spirit.

This medicine has been used by the public for six years, with increasing favor. It is recommended to cure Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Heart & Liver, Colic, Pains, Head in the Stomach, or Pain in the Bowels, Headache, Dizziness, Complaints, Low Spirits, Delirium Tremens, Intemperance, Stomachic, Excesses, Indigestion, Aches, but will not intoxicate.

It is its quick and effective action, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

It will instantly revive the most melancholy and drooping spirits, and restore the weak, nervous and sickly to health, strength and vigor.

Persons who, from the injudicious use of liquors, have become debilitated, and their nervous systems shattered, constitutions broken down, and subject to that horrible curse to humanity, the Delirium Tremens, will, almost immediately, feel the happy and healthy invigorating efficacy of Dr. Han's Invigorating Spirit.

WHAT IT WILL DO.

One wine glass full as often as necessary.

One dose will remove all flatulencies.

One dose will cure Heart-burn.

Three doses will cure Indigestion.

One dose will give you a Good Appetite.

One dose will stop the distressing pains of Dyspepsia.

One dose will remove the distressing and disagreeable effects of Wind or Flatulence, and the moment the stomach receives the Invigorating Spirit, the distressing lead and all painful feelings will be removed.

One dose will remove the most distressing pains of Cholera, either in the stomach or bowels.

A few doses will remove all obstructions to Kidney, Bladder, or Urinary organs.

Persons who are seriously afflicted with any Kidney complaints are assured speedy relief by a dose or two, and a radical cure by the use of one or two bottles.

WILL CURE THE DYSPYPSIA.

Persons who, from dissipating too much of their strength, and the use of the most potent liquors, in violent headachings, sickness at stomach, weakness, giddiness, &c., will find one dose will remove all bad feelings.

Ladies of weak and sickly constitutions should take the Invigorating Spirit three times per day; it will make you strong, healthy, and happy, remove all obstructions and irregularities from the menstrual organs and restore the bloom of health and beauty to the face.

During pregnancy it will be found an invaluable medicine to remove disagreeable sensations at the stomach.

All the proprietor asks, in a trial, and to induce this, he has at the INVIGORATING SPIRIT in pint bottles, at 50 cts. per bottle.

ST. NICHOLAS HOTEL,

Broadway, New York.

WHEN COMPLETED, six years ago, the St. Nicholas was universally pronounced the most magnificent, convenient, and thoroughly organized establishment of the kind on this continent. What it was then it remains to-day—without a rival in its completeness, and in the general element of comfort and enjoyment.

The hotel has accommodations for 1,000 guests, including 100 complete suites of apartments for families. Six hundred persons can be comfortably seated at the tables of its three public dining rooms, and nothing that modern art has devised for the convenience and social gratification of the traveling public has been omitted in its plan, or neglected in its practical details. The early reputation of the house at home and abroad, derived from its magnificence, its superb appointments, and its home-like comforts and luxuries, has been enhanced every year by the unvaried exertions of the proprietors.
